GLOBAL RECEDING HAIR LINE (An article by the WAIS NEWS editor Kelby Courtney)

If we listen to (and believe) what the media are saying then we are heading towards perhaps the biggest economic and social recessions of recent history. No matter what anyone says we are entering into a time of increasing change and uncertainty, so let's think positively.

There all sorts of opportunities being created out there because the of the economic downturn. We just need to change our perspective to see them. As more businesses and shopping centres close down we are left with more empty buildings. These are often full of un-used capital and materials like workspaces and facilities. I heard a news article the other day on the National Radio about a collective of local arts and crafts people in some part of Victoria, Australia (I can't remember the exact place sorry). This group of people transformed a large abandoned shopping centre into a large studio and workshop that is now open to the public. From here they run a variety of workshops and offer free studio time to local people. This is a perfect environment for a LETS! (Local Exchange Currency System). LETS has a big role to play in "freeing-up" the resources (capital and labour) that become redundant under the collapse of the conventional monetary system.

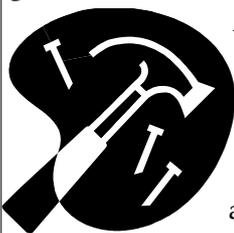

This concept is similar to the "Men's Shed" phenomenon where males of all different ages can come and share their "hands on" skills in open and friendly environment. Carterton has its own Men's Shed based at St Marks Church. The Men's shed runs workshops every Thursday at 1pm.

There are plenty of opportunities out there! All I'm saying is that we should try to consider how we can build our LETS around these opportunities. We are getting a message loud and clear that our conventional economic system cannot survive on its own. We have to break the old way of doing things. Actually, this is not even a recession. It is the simply the undertones of a new beginning.

"WAIS UP" AUCTION Planned for May Market

To help raise interest in the Wairarapa Green Dollar Exchange the committee has decided to hold a GREEN DOLLAR AUCTION at the May Market in Carterton on Saturday the 16th. This promises to be no ordinary auction – we will only use WAIS and all items will be provided by current Green Dollar members. Members of the Wairarapa Green Dollar Exchange are invited to donate some of their wares or services as an item up for grabs during the auction. We have already had two committee members offer their services as items up for grabs at the auction. Glenyss Kurtz has offered her fine tailoring skills to create a garment of your choice and I have offered one day's general labour. Please advise me of your pledge as soon as possible. We hope to get 20 items to auction.

Auction proceeds will go towards reducing the debt of our administration account. This account does earn revenue from selling advertising space and is also topped up by the levy of 4% raised from every WAIS transaction, however these sources of income are not nearly enough to cover the cost of the bad debt owed historically by people when they left the Exchange without settling up. This loss has to be covered somewhere, so it is covered by the administration account. The administration account also make payments to our secretary, treasurer & newsletter editor for their essential service. It is crucial to the overall health of any economic system that the central trading account is kept healthy.

Those donating will really be helping us all out and adding a splash of colour to what will be an exciting event. With lots of support from our members we will not only have a successful auction but raise lots of positive publicity for our exchange and attract more people to participate in our local trading system!

The format of the auction will initially be "silent". This means that items up for grabs will be on display along with a bidding form where people can write their name and contact details alongside the amount they tender. Bids can also be emailed beforehand. The auction will conclude with a final opportunity to bid "loudly" for each item. Non-members can participate. Watch for more item details in our next newsletter.

Many thanks, Kelby (WAISWORDS Editor)
